

Thousands of volunteers dedicated themselves today to pamper the little ones from a school in Boyle Heights.

Reporter - Maria Paula Ochoa:

Today they play with more joy than ever. The children from Sunrise Elementary in Boyle Heights are happy. Their school is changing and is filling up with joy.

Student – Bianca Santos

They are fixing it and drawing pictures and it does not look as old as it did before. Now it is getting better.

Reporter - Maria Paula Ochoa:

What is the thing you like best about the school today?

Student – Angel Camargo

The colors and the drawings.

Reporter – Maria Paula Ochoa:

About a thousand employees from Deloitte & Touche left their desk and came to transform this school.

Deloitte & Touche Employee – Jesus Penilla

We are going to paint the walls, we are going to plant seeds, and we are going to repair for example the benches and gates to make this school a place where children can come and study with out danger.

Reporter – Maria Paula Ochoa:

Effectively, they removed the dirt, planted trees and took out the best of their artistic spirit when filling the school's walls with butterflies and animals.

Deloitte & Touche Employee – Hector Beltran

It is good that the children learn that the education is the best thing in the United States and it is the way that you can advance in society.

Reporter – Maria Paula Ochoa

The volunteers, teachers and even the children agree that a clean and beautiful school is the best door to have a peaceful future.
